Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1,2,6,9,11,14,16,25-31,48 and 52-58 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claims 1,2,6,26 and 48, it is unclear if the fastener is being claimed in the unformed configuration or the formed configuration. It cannot be claimed in both.

IN claim 10, the cutting and bending means are not elements of the fastener.

In claim 11, there is no antecedent basis for "said means".

IN claim 25, the last line, the fastener would have already been formed as the fastener was previously "provided", "located" and "driven".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-6,9,14 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Dal Pont-4203218.

Dal pont discloses a fastener which has a base having a width of about 4mm and two legs about 35mm in length.

Claims 46-58 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Genyk, et al.-4453661.

Genyk discloses a tool for forming a staple fastener where wire is fed into the tool and the tool has an aperture for receiving the wire and a die used to curve the wire into a u-shape and a cutter to cut the legs of the fastener to a particular shape and then it has an anvil which curves the ends of the legs back towards the base of the staple fastener after it is driven through tissue to close an incision. See Fig. 11 and its accompanying description.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 3731

Claims 7,8,10 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dal Pont-'218.

Dal Pont discloses the invention as claimed with the exception of the specific length of the legs and the cutter. As applicant has not disclosed any criticality regarding the legs being either 10 or 100 times the length of the width of the base, the examiner contends that since the prior art shows a ration of about 9:1 that 10:1 would certainly be an obvious modification within the knowledge of one skilled in the art. Additionally, An even longer fastener would have been obvious as well, as the length is not really important since it is later trimmed anyway. Therefore, the claimed lengths, lacking criticality, are considered obvious design choices which would not change the manner in which the prior art fasteners are used. One would have every reason to expect success if the prior art were modified as claimed.

Double Patenting

A rejection based on double patenting of the "same invention" type finds its support in the language of 35 U.S.C. 101 which states that "whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process ... may obtain a patent therefor ..." (Emphasis added). Thus, the term "same invention," in this context, means an invention drawn to identical subject matter. See Miller v. Eagle Mfg. Co., 151 U.S. 186 (1894); In re Ockert, 245 F.2d 467, 114 USPQ 330 (CCPA 1957); and In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970).

A statutory type (35 U.S.C. 101) double patenting rejection can be overcome by canceling or amending the conflicting claims so they are no longer coextensive in scope. The filing of a terminal disclaimer cannot overcome a double patenting rejection based upon 35 U.S.C. 101.

Claims 47-58 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as claiming the same invention as that of claims 2-13 of prior U.S. Patent No. 5972004. This is a double patenting rejection.

Art Unit: 3731

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claim 46 is rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1 of U.S. Patent No. 5972004. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the application claims are merely broader in scope than those of the patent and the patent claims therefore anticipate the application claims.

Claims 1-11, 14, 16, 21-31 and 46-58 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over the claims of U.S. Patent No. 6162233. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the application claims broader in scope than those of the patent, and therefore the patent claims anticipate those of the application.
